THE CHIFFONNIER.

A Little Chapter of Life Translated from the French.

How often have we read stories of poor old misers who have died surrounded by abject poverty, and who have left secreted in odd stockings and out of the way places immense wealth, opportunely discovered after their demise! How often have these realities been dished up by romancers in the shape of pretty little sketches, and been eagerly devoured by the novel-reading public.

"No matter how often," exclaims the impatient reader, "if you've got a story to tell, go ahead with it, and leave off your dull speculations."

Well, my dear sir (or miss), we have got a little chapter of life to relate, but it is in French; however as your education has been sadly neglected (?) and your school-day learning of that unique language has long been forgotten, we don't mean to put you to the trouble of hunting up your "Keetel," or to the mortification of showing your ignorance before your younger brothers and sisters by allowing your doting parents a chance to request that you will "please translate this French humbug for us, my dear." So we give it to you in plain Saxon.

Suzette Borgne was one of the many Suzettes to be found in the great city of Paris. A very good-looking female of about twenty summers, an orphan from childhood, and indebted for her bringing-up to an ugly old uncle. Said relative was a chiffonnier—we beg pardon—a rag-picker, and to judge by appearances he had followed that mean of getting money all his life.

Suzette's earliest recollections were those of being perched upon a heap of rags in her uncle's garret, and playing with Misere, a large black tom cat that old Gregory had kept by him from time immemorial. Misere and Gregory were enough alike to be brothers—if you can imagine such a phenomenon—both being long, lank and lean, with large staring eyes, and a general grizzly appearance. They had even fought for each other, for many an intrusive cur had been driven yelping away from the vicinity of his master's premises by Misere, and many a scrape had the old cat got his master into with his thieving propensities and midnight serenades. Once the house took fire, and these two friends, woke up by the noise and confusion, rushed outside their garret door and tumbled down three pair of stairs together, a mixed combination of human bones, cat fur and old rags. Landing at the bottom of the third flight, an excited member of the fire-police struck at the hobgoblin apparition with his axe, and poor Misere lost his caudal appendage, while Gregory was bereft of three toes. The old man was taken to the hospital and the old cat nursed herself; both recovered, and having been fellow-sufferers were, no doubt, more fond of each other ever after.

At another time the house was invaded by gens d' arms in search of an escaped prisoner, and while poking over old Gregory's rags they were set upon by the infuriated feline, who used his claws with such vigor as nearly to scratch the eyes out of two of them before he could be bagged and flung out of the window. This latter piece of cruelty maddened the aged rag-picker to such a degree that he struck one of the soldiers, and was ignominiously led off to prison. Misere, landing on his feet with a triumphant howl, went back to the dingy garrett and kept guard over its contents till his master returned from durance vile. Here was another cord that bound them together. So you see how it came about that the old fellow loved his cat about as well as he did his niece.

Suzette had now grown to be a woman, and was quite tired of the dull life she was leading as a rag picker's assistant. A good-natured girl she was, and moderately fond of her uncle, but what charms had such a life for her? She must get out into the world, and Annette, wife of Daddy Publice, who kept the little bake shop over the way, fully agreed with her on this important point. In fact, little Annette was kind enough to offer her a position behind her own counter.

"For you see, mon cher," she said to her spouse, in private: "Suzette will attract customers with her pretty face, while you, Henri, and myself can attend to the ovens."

"Ah, yes," responded the amiable Daddy, with a knowing leer, "she'll do. Not a bad match for our Henri would that be, for savez vous, I think that old uncle of hers has money stored away!"

"Go along, you old wretch," roguishly replied Annette, "you men are all for money and nothing else."

So Suzette broached the subject to her guardian, and after a good deal of grumbling and a consultation with his cat, he allowed her to take the situation in Daddy Publice's bake shop.

Suzette went gayly to her new sphere, and soon became a proficient in the mysteries of that little trade. The young students of the neighborhood were observed by inquisitive people to linger over the counter chatting with the new clerk much longer than was necessary, and the same busybodies noticed a vast improvement in the dress of young Henri. To tell the truth, Suzette had not been in the shop three weeks before the heir apparent to the bakery was completely fascinated with her charms, and half the student customers had sworn terrible oaths that they loved the pretty girl to distraction.

The nice little compliments they bestowed upon her, and the before unheard-of liberality with which they bought sweet-cakes and refused to receive their change, greatly pleased Annette and the Daddy, and drove poor Henri nearly wild with jealously. He watched her through the little glass door that separated the outer shop from the ovens, and, as she laughed with and waited on the gay young fellows, the wicked boy actually wished they were all to the bad! yes, he actually felt so bad as to swear about it! But swearing did not help the matter; who ever found that it did? and he had to vent his fury on the innocent pies and cakes, the most of which he burned to a cinder. In consequence, the Daddy called down maledictions on his head, and he in turn raved about Suzette, who, quite unconscious of the row she was causing in the rear, was chatting in front with one of her new made friends, a certain Louis Franciscano, who kept a little book store on the next corner. This Louis was a dashing young fellow, did a thriving business, and sported a "beautiful mustache." "Attraction enough for any poor girl," thought our heroine, and she accordingly accepted his invitation to spend an evening at the theatre.

Suzette, had she dared, would have treated poor Henri with scorn, but the fear of displeasing her employers, and thus losing her place, caused her to look upon him in a respectful manner, and to accept his little compliments with becoming grace. But an evening at the theatre with handsome Louis was much better sport than walking with dull Henri, and a little bonne-bouche from the former was received with the sweetest of smiles and a profusion of mercies, while trifles from the latter were taken with a hypocritical grin, and quietly thrown out of sight.

To sum up the case, Henri was in love with Suzette, Suzette ditto with Louis, and Louis ditto with old Gregory! "That's strange!" remarks the unsophisticated reader. Not at all, my dear sir, for bear in mind that our young bookseller was a very shrewd personage, and had his suspicions about hidden wealth as well as Daddy Publice. So he used to climb up to the old rag-picker's garret, and drive bargains with him for the product of his toil, at the same time keeping an eye out for hints or suggestions regarding "the root of all evil."

Old Gregory was also shrewd, and more than half suspecting the young man's design, and thinking he would be a pretty good catch for his niece, used to jingle the silver that Louis paid him with a satisfied chuckle, and nod his grizzly head in a mysterious way, thus confirming his patron in the belief that he stowed away all such treasures.

One afternoon Louis entered the garret very quietly and caught the old man on his knees before the fire-place, where he was depositing a small bag in a hole caused by the removal of a brick. Perfectly satisfied now he silently slipped out again, made a loud shuffling with his feet, and knocked at the door. On entering, the old gentleman was picking over his rags as usual, the brick was in its place, and Misere, the cat, was curled upon the hearth.

"I have come," said Louis, "to ask the hand of your niece. I'm a lonely young fellow and want a wife."

"Parbleu! a wife! How many louis can you show to support one on?"

"Enough of them, good Monsieur Gregory; besides, has she not some of her own?"

"How should I know? Does she not spend all her earning on fine dresses and feathers?"

"But I mean, will she not come into a property one of these days?"

"A property! Sacre! I know of nobody who has anything for her!"

"Ah you old miser!"

And Louis went away and engaged himself to Suzette that very night, with the understanding that the affair was to be kept secret for the present.

Time wore on, and a very strange event came to pass—Misere, the beloved tom-cat, died! You never heard of a cat dying before? Remember this was a French cat, and not one of our proverbially nine-live-independent Yankee cats! The poor old fellow was found stiff and cold one morning by his disconsolate master, who mourned over the remains a whole day, and then took them to a bird-fancier's and had the skin stuffed. The first time Louis visited the garret there stood Misere in the corner, perched upon a high pedestal, and seemingly as watchful as ever; but he looked out of glass eyes now, and was otherwise incapacitated from active duty.

A short time after this old Gregory himself fell dangerously sick, and Suzette devotedly gave up her clerkship (much to the disgust of Annette, Daddy, the student customers, and even Louis), and faithfully watched over and cared for her lone old uncle. Henri, who had long foreseen the state of affairs between Suzette and Louis, and had given up all hope of winning her hand, still loved her with that intensity peculiar to Frenchmen. He now became the kindest and most attentive of friend, constantly bringing up little delicacies for the uncle, and running of little errands for the niece. so that in a short time the latter began to wonder that she had never before noticed the many good qualities of the honest fellow. His actions shone more brightly by their contrast to those of Louis, which latter personage seldom made his appearance, and was always in a hurry to get away.

After many weeks of sickness old Gregory died, and Suzette was alone in the world. The day after the funeral Annette, the Daddy and Henri came into the desolate garret to keep her company awhile. Presently Louis made his appearance, when the others, with unusual common sense, were for going home and leaving the young couple to themselves, but Louis detained them by saying:

"Don't go, my good folks, I want a little talk with you. You know of the engagement between Suzette and I, and now as her future husband, I propose that we together search this room for money which I think old Gregory must have secreted here. Come, let us begin with the fireplace," and he easily found the loose brick which he had seen in the hands of the rag-picker on the former occasion. Excitedly throwing it down, he thrust his hand into the opening, and drew forth an old stocking.

"Stop!" hurriedly exclaimed Suzette, "you are not yet the master, and have no right to open that. Give it to me."

"Just as you please," and handing it to her, he again thrust his arm into the hole but found nothing more.

All now crowded round Suzette, curious and impatient, while she emptied the stocking of its contents,—an oblong, lead box. Louis forced the lid open, and what do you suppose there was inside?

"Heaps of money?" No, sir. "A big bank-book?" No, ma'am. Nothing but a piece of paper with this scrawled on it: "Suzette, my child, take good care of Misere, for the sake of your uncle."

With chop-fallen countenance, Louis was about to resume the search, when the voice of Suzette arrested him.

"Louis Franciscano, you will find no secreted treasure, and as that seems to be your object in coming here, you may as well go!"

"Very good, mademoiselle, a penniless bride is a small loss, to my taste. I bid you a pleasant adieu."

And he took himself off.

It was now Henri's turn, and his offer to take Suzette for herself was not rejected. They were shortly after married, and she took her old place behind the counter of the Daddy's bakery.

On going to remove the few things from the old garret, Suzette remembered the lines her uncle had bequeathed her, and endeavored to remove Misere, when lo and behold, he couldn't be stirred! Henri was called in, but still old Misere wouldn't budge! A surgical operation with a pen-knife and a postmortem examination revealed the cause—he was stuffed with golden louis!

Suzette, like the good girl she was, ever after took the best care of Misere, and his stuffing!

Little Pauline had been reproved for some misconduct, and was sitting on a small chair by the window, looking very disconsolate. "Hallo!" said papa, chancing to come in as two big tears were about ready to fall. "Look at Pauline! Why, what is going to happen?" 'It has happened,' said Pauline, solemnly.

Utilizing Dead Horses.

A crowd had gathered on a Southside street corner where a horse with a broken limb had been shot. As the owner stood ruefully surveying his loss a fat, dark-complexioned man elbowed his way up and said, as he smiled grimly:

'Say, mister, I'll cart that horse away if you'll give it to me. Is it a bargain?'

The owner pondered a minute, looked around at the crowd and remarked:

'The animal is no use to me, and I guess you can have it, but I'm blessed if I know what you want with it. You can have it if you'll tell me.'

'All right. You see a dead horse represents considerable money to me, and when I can get one, I am going to drop into it every time. I'll haul the animal out to my place, where I will skin it, and tan the hide, or else sell it raw to one of the tanneries. It will then go to some boot and shoe firm, who will proceed to make it up nicely and commands a fancy price.

'Shoes made of cordovan, as the leather is termed, are considered the proper things by swells and sell well. The tail, which is long and bushy, can be made into a nice horse brush or switch for ladies. To make a nice switch I take out the bone from the tail and stick the skin into a handle, and there we have it all ready for use as soon as it gets dry.

'But what do you do with the remainder of the body—the bones and flesh?'

'Oh, they come handy. I raise lots of hunting dogs. Of course, if I were to buy beef for them, it would cost me a small fortune. When I get or buy dead horses I save some of the meat, feeding the dogs on that. They thrive on it, and it don't cost me much.

'The hoofs I sell to some glue factory, where they are boiled and made into glue. Do I make use of the bones? Of course I do. Sometimes I grind them up and sell them as fertilizers, ground bone is the stuff to spread on your garden if you want to raise good crops. When I am busy and want to dispose of them I sell them to some button-factory. They make buttons, large and small, out of bones. I have seen some knife handles made out of bone, but it cracks easily and is not used much. Buttons are more generally made from horse bone than anything else in that line.

'Now, if you want any meat for your cats let me know, and I will supply you,' but the former possessor of the horse did not seem to relish the idea of his cats being fed on horseflesh, and declined the offer with thanks.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

A Man Must be at the Throttle.

When a locomotive rolled up to an early East Tennessee town, and the engineer, who was a man of small stature, got down to 'oil around,' two mountaineers looked at the engine for the first time; they examined in critically, were lost in admiration, thought it was 'a big thing,' but as one of them seized up the little engineer, he remarked: 'It don't take much of a man to run her, does it, Jim?'

But he didn't know—it does look easy—a boy might stand on the footboard, open and shut the throttle; but, Jim, it does take a good deal of a man to stand there all through the hours of the day and night, to know all the grades of the road, where he 'must make her red-hot and pull her wide open' to get to the top of the hill, and where to 'shut her off and let her roll;' it does take much of a man to read the guage, and know if the water is low or if there is plenty; to know when she is working easily, or laboring hard; to feel her pulse, as it were, as he stands in his place, and tells whether all is well; and then, if she 'lets down,' it does take much of a man to know just what to do to disconnect and block her up.

It does take much of a man when there is a stretch of track to take a long look ahead or peer around curves, to watch the track for anything that may be in the way, and if there should be—a tree, a rock, or a broken rail, or a misplaced switch—then there must be a man at the throttle, one who has the nerve to do the act very quickly, one who has brains to think with, and a strong arm to act; one who loses sight of himself and thinks of those behind him, all unconscious of danger. It will take a man then, Jim, to apply the brake to 'throw her over and give her steam'

There is the guage to watch and the water; the track must be watched and the signals—see if they are red or green. It is watch, watch, all the time, think and remember every figure on the time card and the mile post and the station, and the yellow tissue paper the telegraph man gave him at the last station—verily, eternal vigilance is the price of life! Yes, Jim, it does take much of a man to run her.—The Pointer.

The World's Depot.

Nearly seven million men, women and children have looked back in memory to Castle Garden as the spot whereon their feet first rested on the free shores of America. Out of these millions many have passed the barrier which separates all from the future. To the general public nothing more is known of Castle Garden than that it is a place where foreigners are landed. The extent of the daily business done there, and the manner of doing it, are to them as a sealed book.

There are still living many who remember Castle Garden as the place where, previous to 1855, delightful concerts, grand balls and brilliant receptions were held.

Up to the year 1885 emigrants were landed at the various docks along the city front, where they became an easy prey to the wiles of the boarding house keepers and their satelities, the river thieves, runners and the thousand and one attaches of a nefarious trade.

In 1885 the legislature of the State passed a law leasing Castle Garden from the city, which had owned it since 1822, and designated it as a depot for the landing of emigrant passengers.

Statistics show that from 1846 to 1884 inclusive, a period of thirty-eight years, there have been landed 7,881,658 emigrant passengers at the port of New York. This shows an average of 207,412 per year. The largest number landed 7,881,658 emigrant passengers at the port of New York. This shows an average of 207,412 per year. The largest number landed in any one year was in 1882, when 476,681 passed through the garden. The lowest number received was in 1887 when only 63,855 were landed.

In the rotunda of the garden there are offices where railroad tickets for any place in the United States can be obtained at regular rates. The different telegraph lines have also branches there. There is also an hospital connected with the garden, which is in charge of an experienced physician.

A day spent in inspecting the workings of this real beneficial institution will give food for interesting study. Long familiarity with the wants and needs of new arrivals has made the attaches efficient in the discharge of their duties, and a crowd of two thousand, or even as high as seven thousand people are disposed of in one day.—New York Herald.

Smart People.

Sam V. Harris lives in Fort Worth. Neither he nor his wife are very smart, as will be seen by the following incident. Last night Sam heard a noise under his bed.

'There is somebody under the bed,' said Sam to his wife.

'It's Fido; I guess.'

'No, I think it's a burglar,' replied Sam.

'Just reach your hand down and if it is Fido he will lick it.'

The burglar, for it was one after all, overheard the conversation, and when Sam reached his hand down the burglar licked it all over very affectionately. This was entirely satisfactory, and they both went to sleep, but when they woke up next morning there was not much left in the house that was worth carrying off.—Texas Siftings.

GENERAL GRANT'S health is reported very poor. Mental trouble is said to have much to do with his serious condition.

IT looks as if England and Russia might have a set-to. They are using pretty strong language about the Afghanistan, the frontier of which is occupied by Russian troops at several points. The British sent warning to the Russian foreign minister saying, that Great Britain will not allow the Russians on English ground. Look out for bloody heads!

YESTERDAY, the fourth of March, the festive inauguration of the first democratic president in twenty-four years took place at Washington. About the men who will form his cabinet, everybody is still in the dark, and will be so until Mr. Cleveland has officially announced his chosen ones. The new president arrived at Washington on Tuesday evening and took lodgings in the Arlington house. The city is in a blaze of light and color and is thronged with visitors from all parts of the country.

In next week's issue we will endeavor to give our readers as full an account as possible.

PRESIDENT-ELECT Cleveland in a letter addressed to the Silver men in Congress recently clearly gives his views on the silver coinage question. He urges the stoppage of silver coinage, giving as a reason financial troubles which will arise should the same be continued. Though the silver men had their own way and committed the wrong step of forcing the matter through, President Cleveland's unflinching and able expression of opinion on this important question strengthens the confidence of his constituents in his ability and clearsightedness.

VOX POPULI has its say in this week's JOURNAL, in the form of two communications. The one is a preamble and resolution of Progress Grange, Centre Hall, in which the passage of a law appropriating $8000 to the State College is vehemently opposed. The other communication treats at length on the all-absorbing "New Court House Question" and needs only to be read to understand the feelings of a majority of taxpayers in this part of the county, in this costly enterprise. No need for us to dwell on the subject editorally. "John Plowman" hits the nail square on the head and we agree with him in nearly all parts of his letter. Of course if the voice of the people will not be heeded and a new Court House must be built, we can only do what every other law-abiding citizen will do—humbly submit to the inevitable and pay the heavy taxes like a good fellow.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 2, 1885.

How Washington juries are organized to acquit is so well known throughout the country that comment upon the Washington court-martial may be superfluous. The case of General Swaim was as fairly tried and the offender as fairly convicted of a flagrant crime as the record of any court in Christendom could demonstrate. Yet instead of stripping the epaulettes from the shoulders of a convicted thief and kicking him out of the service, as he ought to have been kicked out long ago, this weak solution of military aristocracy, in the shape of a court-martial, imposes a punishment of half pay retirement actually beyond the period when the law itself would have retired him on half-pay had he preserved a good record. And this mild sentence which is actually a reward and an encouragement for knavery in every part of the military service, had to be forced from this court by the protestation of the President. In the civil courts, Dempsey and Kirkwood, whose frauds upon the Government were established as clearly as the noonday sun, were fully acquitted by a jury, whose action compelled a most deserving reprimand from the court itself. In these cases triplicate accounts and their corresponding vouchers were made out, presented and paid, to the amount of more than seventy thousand dollars. I am not of those who despair of the Republic because of those things, but where by the preordained determination of men, crime is to be fostered and its punishment averted by the manipulation of juries, what becomes of our boasted bulwark of trial by jury in the protection of the public interests and the promotion of the general welfare?

The constitution of Mr. Cleveland's cabinet is yet a matter of most intense speculation, especially among the politicians, and it probably will continue so until the list of portfolios is officially announced after the inauguration this week. The announcement of some names that Mr. Cleveland is said to have fixed upon is no sooner made than they are made to give place to others which Mr. Cleveland is known to have fixed upon. The long and short of the whole business may be summed up, as I wrote you before, that Mr. Cleveland himself does not yet know of a single man who will become a member of the Presidential family, because he has made no decision, nor will he make any before he comes to the Capital on the 3d day of March. The general talk now is that Mr. Garland, upon whom everybody had positively fixed upon as the Attorney General, may not be in the cabinet at all; and so with Mr. Bayard and others who are said to have had the ear of the President-elect. It seems a little queer in these days where brevity may very properly be considered the soul of wit, that weeks should be employed in preparing the inaugural address when the addresses of all Mr. Cleveland's predecessors were so exceedingly short. The second inaugural of General Washington was an interminably long State paper, but the country was in a state of trouble and turmoil which had culminated in the Whisky Insurrection in Pennsylvania, that required more than the usual elaboration. THE NEW COURT HOUSE QUESTION.

Mr. Editor:—

If you could give an old patron a little space in your paper on a subject of great importance to every tax-payer in the county, you would confer not only a personal favor but do the public in general a service as well.

At the January session of our court our brand new Judge urged upon the grand jury with much ability and force, the building of a new, and presumably very costly court house. The grand jury passed on the question affirmatively, and it is only necessary for the next grand jury at the coming April term, to follow suit, and the new court house, with an addition to the county debt of about a hundred thousand dollars, will be a fixed fact. That projects of such magnitude and importance should be so easily saddled upon the people without their consent but proves the weakness and defects of a system inherited from our British cousins, but not at all in harmony with modern, progressive, American ideas. It is "taxation without representation" as much as that suffered by the colonies under George III. For in no sense can a grand jury be said to be a legislative body. They are not elected by the people, but selected by a few minor county officers and without the least reference to questions of this class. In some of the western states, where the people had an opportunity to avoid the old, rusty blunders in the organic laws of most old states, no such enterprise as the one proposed can be carried out, except by a majority vote of the people concerned. This is as it should be, and I hope will yet be, in old conservative Pennsylvania.

The building of a new court house now, would be entirely unnecessary, untimely and a lavish, useless extravagance. The present court house is very substantial, well arranged, and has answered its purpose admirably for some thirty years, although not so imposing externally as some of our wealthy lawyers, bankers and other wealthy citizens of Bellefonte would wish—and there's the rub! The court hall proper is one of the best, most spacious and most beautiful in the interior of the state—superior to those of Lock Haven, Williamsport, Lewisburg, Middleburg or Lewistown, and compares very favorably with those of Harrisburg, Reading and York. But the vaults, oh, the vaults, with all the valuable records! These, it is discovered all of a sudden are not fireproof, highly unsafe and unfit generally. Whether the allegation has more of pretext or of truth, I do not pretend to know; but if strictly true, can they not be made secure without building a new court house? Or could not one or even two watchmen be employed to patrol every part of the court house, day and night, and thus almost literally prevent the possibility of a conflagration? It seems to me that either plan would be feasible and serve the purpose well.

The building of a new court house would be most untimely. There never was a time within the memory of the present generation, when the people of the county were less prepared and less able for such an additional heavy burden as the building of a magnificent new court house would involve. Probably never before did business men have smaller margines, land owners smaller rentals, tenant farmers smaller earnings and mechanics and laborers less employment than now, and for the past year. Never were agricultural manufactoring and mechanical pursuits so utterly prostrate as now—and just at this severe pinchiug juncture, when the coming question with the great majority of our people is-not how to "make money" and grow rich—but how to support families decently—how to make ends meet—the project of building a new $100,000 court house is suddenly and unexpectedly sprung upon the people, without previous notice or warning.

It sickens the very heart to see the lavish extravagance of the day. It is discouraging in the highest degree to the working classes of the county to see that, after our citizens and efficient board of County Commissioners have jointly labored so hard and successfully to reduce the county debt to bearable dimensions, a scheme is sprung to pile up another huge debt, probably twice as large as it was when the present board of Commissioners came into office.

The people of this part of the county are universally opposed to the new court house project and it is but fair to presume that the same is true of other sections of the county, excepting probably Bellefonte and its immediate neighborhood. And if the grand jury at the coming April court but measurably reflect the sentiment and wishes of the people there will be no new court house. JOHN PLOWMAN.

Brush Valley, Feb. 28th 1885.

For the Journal.

AT a meeting of Progress Grange, held at Centre Hall, Pa., February 28, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, There is a bill now pending before the State Legislature to appropriate $8000 a year to the State College under the pretense of an experimental station, and

WHEREAS, the State College has already been magnificently endowed and received large appropriations from the state, ample to make it a first-class technical school in agriculture and mechanic arts as contemplated by its original founders and incorporators, and, had the revision of its management submitted by the Governor of the Commonwealth and Superintendent of Public Institution been adopted at the meeting of the trustees in Bellefonte last April, the experimental farms and college would now be in full equipment and doing the work of an experimental station without further appropriation from the state at a time when the treasury is depleted. At the same time it was provided with sufficient funds to do the whole work of a technical school in agriculture and mechanic arts.

Therefore be it

Resolved, that we enter our protest as members of Progress Grange and citizens of Centre county against the contemplated appropriation of $8000 a year to said institution as provided by bill now pending before the State Legislature.

Woman's Province.

THE DUTIES OF THE GENTLER SEX—HOW BEST FULFILLED.

What a great task is assigned to woman. Its dignity can not be elevated. It is not her province to make laws, to lead armies, nor to be at the head of great enterprises, but to her is given the power to form those by whom the laws are made, to teach the leaders of mighty armies and the governors of vast empires. She is required to guard against having the slightest taint of bodily infirmity touch the frail creature whose moral, intellectual and physical being is derived from her. She must instil correct principles, inculcate right doctrines, and breathe into the soul of her offspring those pure sentiments which in time to come will be a part of themselves, and bless generations yet unborn. Yes, to woman is given the blessed privilege of aiding the sufferer in all the various stages of his existence. She smiles serenely at the christening, and weeps at the burial, while she soothes the bereaved heart. This is her province and duty. Yet how can she fulfill her mission unless possessed of a strong and healthy body? The preparation of Dr. S. B. Hartman, and known as PERUNA, is just the thing for persons suffering from a majority of the complaints incident to this climate. It is invaluable to women, and Mrs. J. W. Reynolds, of New Lisbon, Columbiana county, Ohio, is a noted example of what the medicine can do. She says she has suffered for years with congestion of the lungs, catarrh in the head, and was troubled with a bad cough. She had tried a number of physicians, but they all failed to cure her. She was induced to try PERUNA, and immediately a marked change took place. After using one bottle her cough ceased and in a short time her other ailments were cured. She is now completely restored to health, and gives all the credit to PERUNA. Mr. J. W. Reynolds, her husband, was a confirmed invalid. He could not sleep well, neither could he work. He used PERUNA, and as a result, was completely restored to his former vigor and strength. He says he now feels like a new man.

Mr. Bernhardt Seubs, St. Clair, St. Clair county, Mich., says: "I have thoroughly tried your PERUNA in the various diseases to which parents and a large family of children are ever liable, and I find it in every case to be just the thing needed. No family can honestly be without it."

Nancy Feterman, Cookport, Indiana County, Pa., says: "Gentlemen: Your valuable PERUNA is the best medicine I ever used."

GIVEN AWAY FOR ONE YEAR

We want 200,000 subscribers before May 1st, 1885 to our large illustrated publication, THE SUNSHINE MAGAZINE. In order to get the above number of subscribers we must give away subscriptions the first year, and the second year we will make up the loss as most of them will subscribe again, paying our regular price. Send twelve two-cent stamps to pay postage and you will have the above Magazine to read every week for one whole year. If you accept the above offer, we expect you will be kind enough to distribute among your friends, a few small books containing our advertisements and 167 of the best household receipts, for which we will make you a present of a handsome, silver plated five-bottle CASTER, or a pair of ROLLER SKATES. State how many books you can give away for us, and we will send the books and Caster [or Skates] prepaid. Order for your friend also, and you will receive both presents. Address

SUNSHINE MAGAZINE CO., Fillmore, N. Y.

The use of Iodoform or Mercurials in the treatment of catarrh—whether in the form of suppositories or ointments—should be avoided, as they are both injurious and dangerous. Iodoform is easy detected by its offensive odor. The only reliable catarrh remedy in the market today is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from all poisonous drugs. It has cured thousands of chronic and acute cases, where all other remedies have failed. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents; of druggists. 7-4t

A $20.00 BIBLE REWARD.

The publishers of Rutledge's Monthly offer twelve valuable rewards in their Monthly for March, among which is the following:

We will give $20.00 to the person telling us the longest verse in the Old Testament Scriptures by March 10th, 1885. Should two or more correct answers be received, the reward will be divided. The money will be forwarded to the winner March 15th, 1885. Persons trying for the reward must send 20 cents in silver [no postage stamps taken] with their answer, for which they will receive the Monthly for April, in which the name and address of the winner of the reward and correct answer will be published, and in which several more valuable rewards will be offered. Address RUTLEDGE PUBLISHING COMPANY, Easton, Pa.

4t Freeburgh, Pa.

—Henry Behm and Jeremiah Winkelblech, the administrators of the estate of Isaac Behm, late of Haines township, deceased, will offer at public sale on Friday, March 13th, the personal property of decedent. See Bills.

READ.—The undersigned give notice that they will operate the Lime and Cement Kiln on North street by the first of March, and will constantly keep on hand the best quality of Lime, Cement, Flour, Feed, Plaster, &c. Public patronage respectfully solicited.
McMULLEN & STRUNK.

—A New Columbia correspondence in last week's Lewisburg Saturday News contains the following item: "Mr. H. H. Trumpfheller intends moving to this place again." Mr. Trumpfheller who resides on Mill street, is an estimable citizen of Millheim and we are sorry to lose him. Of course the New Columbians are the gainers.

FARM FOR RENT.—The farm of George Breon, deceased, situate in Gregg township, about three miles south of Spring Mills, can be rented. It contains about 75 acres of cultivated land, with good water and an abunbandance of fruit on the premises. Come and see the property. At present occupied by PETER A. BREON.

—Farmers' Store in Haines township, owned by Henry Fiedler, has been purchased by Mr. F. O. Hosterman, the proprietor of the Sewing machine office in town. Mr. Fiedler is now in search of a suitable private residence in Millheim. Hope he will succeed in buying one, as we are anxious to gain the staunch and respected old gentleman as a citizen.

—We call the attention of our readers to the new advertisement of Theodore Deshner, proprietor of the Great Central Gun Works, Bellefonte, Pa. That enterprising gentleman keeps a complete line of guns, fishing tackle and musical instruments. Sportsmen and musicians will do well to give him a call when in Bellefonte. He is an obliging salesman and always tries to please his customers.

—On Monday morning J. H. Reifsnyder, Esq., started for Washington to attend the inauguration, and will afterward go south to see after some of his timberlands in Tennessee and take in the New Orleans exposition. He expects to be absent several weeks.

A postal card received yesterday from the squire, dated Washington, March 3rd, says: "Arrived here all O K. and the weather is fair. Snow all gone. Send copy of JOURNAL to Spencer, Van Buren Co., Tenn. J.H.R."

—Yesterday surely was a harvest for pickpockets at Washington. According to press accounts they were on the way to inauguration from all parts of the United states. No doubt many people will return home minus some valuable things.

—Mr. C. A. Sturgis, the pleasant jeweler of Lewisburg, was in town on Monday and Tuesday and we took notice that Charley combines business with pleasure on these trips. Nothing like "hitting two birds with one stone."

—The Central Pennsylvania Conference of the Evangelical Association will convene at York, Pa, on Thursday, March 5th, to hold its annual session and will last one week. Bishop Dubs, D. D., from Cleveland, Ohio, will preside.

—C. A. Weaver, of Aaronsburg, has been engaged as salesman in J. W. Snook's store and by the first of April Cal, with his usual pleasant and accommodating manner will be ready to put up packages for customers. He is an experienced and reliable clerk.

—Landlord W. S. Musser had two of his horses clipped and they make a splendid appearance now. The fact is, they look like a new match team and many people were under that impresion at Weaver's sale last Saturday, when Mr. M. had them hitched up in his cutter.

—The barn of Mr. Samuel Van Tries, deceased, near Linden Hall, was totally destroyed by fire with all its contents excepting live stock on Monday night. This is the second barn that was consumed by the devouring elements on the same spot within a few years.

—Jasper W. Stover purcashed W. J. Springer's property on Main street the other day and expects to take possession of it by the first of April next. We understand that he will leave Snook's store at the same time and intends to go into the jewelry business on his own hook.

—J. Spigelmyer has rented the entire Alexander property, corner of Main and Penn streets and will move into the dwelling house by the first of April. He will take possession of the store room, at present occupied by D. S. Kauffman & Co., on the 15th of May.

—An enteralnment will be held in the Pike school house, Penn township, Tuesday evening, the 10th instant. The programme will consist of recitations, medleys, select readings, dialogues and a "Spelling Bee." Come one, come all.
W. T. AUMAN, Teacher.

—Rev. Martin Luther Deitzler, of Adamsburg, Snyder county, Pa., will preach his trial sermons in the Aaronsburg Luth. charge as follows: Saturday evening, Penns Creek, English; Sunday morning, Aaronsburg, English; Afternoon, St. Paul, German; Evening, Millheim, English.

—Mr. B. O. Deininger, the Journal store man, has been appointed Notary Public. Mr. D. possesses more than the necessary qualifications for the office and is a citizen much deserving of the the position. His friends will receive the news of his luck with gratification and we join them in offering our congratulation.

NOTICE.—All persons using the Red Barn or any part of the ground or buildings, known as the Deshler and Jordan property on Penn street, Millheim, excepting the ice house of Roop and Reifsnyder, will please vacate on the first day of April 1885, otherwise the articles will be disposed of according to law.
D. I. BROWN.

—Mr. S. T. Frain, of the First National Hotel, and Mr. Noah Stoyer, left for Washington on Tuesday to help inaugurate the democratic president. Mrs. Frain, who went to Harrisburg last week, was met at that place by her husband and will also accompany him on his trip to the national capital. We hope they will have a fine time and a safe journey.

—Last Saturday evening we had the pleasure of listening to one of the finest entertainments ever given in this section. The Reformed church at Aaronsburg was moderately filled by an appreciative audience. The programme opened with a piece of music by the Millheim band, after which Prof. Geo. P. Bible, the able editor of the Centre Democrat, Bellefonte, and an elocutionist of considerable fame, delighted his hearers by some of his best representations. He renders humor and pathos with equal individuality, making a host of admirers by his rich and well-culturued voice. His performances on the wonderful Xylophone were novel and pleasing.

One of the Misses Bradley having contracted a severe cold, her sister Miss Mary Bradley was compelled to take the other part of the programme entirely on herself, which she did in a very commendable manner. Her vocal and instrumental solos were exquisite and proved the lady to be an highly accomplished musician. Miss Bradley and Mr. Bible received the encomiums of all who were lucky enough to come and hear them. The Ladies' Mite Society of the Aaronsburg Reformed church cleared about $27.00 from this entertainment.

—Mrs. Maria Stover, residing 2½ miles east of Aaronsburg, will make sale of her personal property on the premises, on Tuesday, March 24th, 1885.

—The council of Millheim borough organized last Monday evening by electing J. H. Maize, President and D. L. Zerby, secretary. The president then appointed the following committees for the ensuing year: Street and Alley, John Breon, Wm. Henney, E.C. Campbell; Finance, John Harter, Adolph Miller, E. C. Campbell; Nuisance, W. R. Henney, John Harter, Adolph Miller. High Constable Jacob Keen was appointed Street Commissioner. Their regular meeting place will be Adolph Miller's cigar store.

—SAYS 'neighbor Smith, "My little girl was pale and sickly, rapidly losing flesh, appetite variable, and sleep much disturbed. Her condition was becoming alarming. Was advised by a friend to try McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders. Administered three and she expelled the enormous number of 132 worms. Neighbor Smith now thinks McDonald's Worm Powders are the greatest vermifuge in existence.

—The Millheim Skating Rink has new proprietors. Mr. D. A. Musser of Millheim purchased the building and skates last week and his sons will manage the rink under the firm name "Musser Brothers." The rates have been greatly reduced as will be seen in their advertisement in another column and the enterprise promises to become more of a success than before.

—JUST SO! Seven out of ten you meet have a bad cold, and with coughing, hawking and snoring are kept busy. Do a good thing for yourself at once, by going to the nearest drug store and getting a bottle of Dr. Kessler's English Cough Medicine. If you are not satisfied that it is worth all your pay, the druggist will hand you back your money. Sold by J. Eisenhuth, Millheim, Pa.

CONVENTION AT COBURN.—That village will be the scene of song and laughter next week, when there will be a musical convention in the Ev. church. It will commence on Monday evening, and close with two concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings following. Joseph Kleckner, of Coburn, will conduct the singing and will be assisted by Miss Ida Herlacher, of Logansville as organist and Prof. Lowell Meyer, of Centre Hall, the popular solo singer. "Our Song World" will be the book used by the class. The proceeds of the convention will be used for the payment of the debt still resting on the church at Coburn and everybody is cordially invited to attend and help the good cause along. Singers from a distance will be entertained free.

—FOR scrofula, erysipelas, tetter, salt rheum, skin diseases, humors, sores, eruptions, pimples, blotches, swellings, tumors, boils, ulcers, scald head, ringworm, hives, and all blood disorders, no remedy ever devised equals in efficacy and power McDonald's Great Blood Purifier or Sarsaparillian Alterative. Communicated.

SAD BEREAVEMENT.—The family of our former townsman and friend, Mr. James J. Musser, of Hartleton, is most sadly bereaved. On Sunday morning, Anna A., the wife and mother of a large family, after a long and lingering illness, was summoned by the death angel to her eternal home. Her age was about forty-eight years. Tuesday morning, Lillie, a daughter of seventeen years, followed her mother into the eternal world. The funeral of Mrs. was fixed for Wednesday and very probably that of the daughter took place at the same time.

Mrs. Musser was the only child of Mr. Anthony Albert, formerly of Millheim, but now of Wheaton, Ill. She was highly respected and beloved by all who knew her, and her death is an irreparable loss to her husband and family. We sincerely condole with Mr. Musser in his great bereavement, and trust that He who "tempereth the wind to the shorn lamb" may sustain him by His grace.

For the JOURNAL.

—The musical and literary entertainment in the Reformed church at Aaronsburg, on Saturday evening, was well attended. Prof. Geo. P. Bible, the elecutionist, acquitted himself well. Upon every appearance throughout the programme he held the close attention of an appreciative audience. His performance on the Xylophone was greatly enjoyed as a novelty. It seemed strange that so much music could be brought out of an instrument which is apparently so simple a combination of wood and straw. Miss Mary Bradley sang in a beautiful manner a number of excellent solos. Her voice is sweet and graceful. It was universally regretted, that Miss Sallie Bradley was unable to fill her part of the programme, in consequence of a cold which entirely deprived her of the use of her voice. The Millheim Band which kindly consented to be present, added materially to the pleasure of the entertainment upon the whole of which there are many commendations and expressions of appreciation.

The thanks of the Ladies' Mite Society are due Mr. Bible and the Misses Bradley for donating the amount of compensation promised them, to the new church furnishing fund.

In like manner do they acknowledge themselves indebted to the Millheim Band for their services on the occasion; to Dr. Gutelius for the use of his piano and to the Editor of the Journal for a liberal reduction, frequently made on the price or printing bills. Net proceeds $27.

A PAYING INVESTMENT.—At this season of the year, when your cows fail in milk, your horses become rough in coat, your pigs refuse to thrive, the hens won't lay as many eggs as they should, you will find a package or two of McDonald's Celebrated Tonic and Blood Purifyer Horse and Cattle Powders judiciously administered an investment that will pay dividends. They are positively the best Horse and Cattle Powders made. Dissatisfied buyers can have their money refunded. What other manufacturer dare make this offer.

It is so very, very funny, that some people must always meddle in other people's business, who are fully able to attend to it themselves. Why it is thus? We say let every one mind his own affairs and he will have his hands full. [That's good advice, Jack, but alas, it is very seldom followed.—Ed.]

---FOR CAH---

Believing that the people of Centre county are fully awake to their best interests and that they have the intelligence to comprehend and the courage to recognize the means best calculated to bring about the most desirable results, we would most confidently and earnestly submit the following for your careful consideration:

That king credit has slain its victims by the thousands upon its extended battle fields is a fact beyond successful contradiction, and we would only ask you to call to your recollections your own observations, in proof of this fact, and, the pitiful appeals of those still under the crushing heel of the tyrant fall upon our ears with unmistable certainty and we would say, come, let us rush to their rescue by wielding the sword of justice and striking the monster down with a decisive blow and keeping him there by eternal vigilance. This can be done only by a system which pays as well as demands CASH on delivery.

This system we will adopt and put into operation on the twenty-sixth day of December 1884, after which we will buy and sell positively for cash and produce only and will name such figures on goods as will fully convince every intelligent person that it is to their interest to buy their goods where KING CREDIT finds no quarter, but where the
is radically and permanently established and strictly adhered to. Kindly inviting and soliciting the co-operation of every one in giving this system a thorough trial, we are

POVERTY OF PRESIDENTS.

Most of the Nation's Rule rs Dying Poor.

Financial Condition of the Presidents From Washington Down to Garfield.

If you will look back over the list, writes the Washington correspondent of the Cleveland [Ohio] Leader, you will see that from the beginning most of our presidents have been poor men. George Washington was, perhaps, the wealthiest of them and Rutherford B. Hayes will perhaps rank next. John Adams, at the age of 66, after twenty-six years of continuous public service, retired to his little estate at Quincy, Mass., with barely enough property to give him the needs of life on a farm. Thomas Jefferson had to borrow something less than $10.000 of a Richmond bank to pay his debts before he left the White House, and the history of the last seventeen years of his life is one of almost constant financial embarassment. President Madison left some property at the time of his death, but his widow, the peerless Dolly, was for a time dependent on the bread and meat furnished her by an old negro servant, and her last days were made easy only by Congress buying of her for $30,000 the manuscript notes of the debates of the Constitutional Convention which Madison had taken. President Monroe, though he declined, it is said, $358,000 from the government for his public services, died very poor in New York. John Quincy Adams must have received over half a million dollars in goverment salaries, and he is one of the few Presidents who again took up life after he left the White House. He remained in retirement only about a year, and then entered the Lower House of Congress. After about sixteen years of service there he died in the Capital in 1848, exclaiming, "This is the end of earth, I am content." Andrew Jackson gained nothing in wealth from his White House salary. It cost him, he said, every cent of it to pay his expenses, and the most of the proceeds of his cotton crop in addition. He returned from Washington at the close of his second term with just $90 in his pocket, to find his farm going to ruin, and himself so deeply in debt that he had to sell part of his land to get out. Van Buren was a cloee, cautious, money-making fellow. He got good law fees and began to learn economy while saving enough as a young man to get married. At his estate at Lindenwald, where he lived during his last years, he was surrounded with comforts. President Harrison owned a farm in Ohio when he was inaugurated President. It was safe to say he was poor, for he had lately been doing the drudgery of a clerk of the courts at Cincinnati. President Tyler supplied much of the money which ran the White House out of his own pocket, and Congress would not pay the salary of his own private secretary. Moderately wealthy while here at Washington, he left little to his children, and one of his sons is now a clerk in the Treasury Department in Washingtown. Zach Taylor was by no means wealthy when he died in the White House. James K. Polk left a big house and enough to keep his widow, and Millard Fillmore, who started life as a wool carder, died ten years ago with enough of an estate to create a lawsuit over the sanity of his second wife. James Buchanan did not leave such an estate as enabled Harriet Lane to keep Wheatlands, and within the past year it has been advertised for sale. Buchanan spent all his salary as President at Washington, and what he had left after paying his White House expenses he gave to charity. Abraham Lincoln died poor, and it was due to Congress that his family was provided for. Andrew Johnson went back to his house at Greenville, Tenn., where he started life as a tailor. He died by a stroke of paralysis, and left no fortune behind. Of the other Presidents Grant's necessities are agitating the country to-day, and Garfield's family is wealthy only through the voluntary subscriptions of the people. Truely, as Sidney Smith used to say, "There is nothing so expensive as glory."

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

Cold in the Head.

The commonest kind of cold is that called "cold in the head," to distinguish it from "cold on the chest." This "cold in the head" has certain well-marked symptoms—a feeling of general malaise is experienced, often accompanied with a slight feverish sickness. Then comes a sensation of fullness in the head, there is sneezing, a profuse flowjof tears, an irritating and copious discharge from the nose. This means that the mucous membrane of the nose is inflamed, and if this spreads down the back of the throat the sufferer becomes hoarse. The best way to treat this troublesome complaint is to take a "hot drink." An orange sliced and put into a large cup with a little sugar sprinkled over it, and boiling water poured upon it, and then drunk as hot as possible, is both pleasant and beneficial. The feet should be put into hot water, with or without a little mustard. This foot bath should be taken at the bedside; the patient should be well wrapped up, and a blanket placed across his knees should be drawn outside the bath, so as to confine the steam. After keeping the feet in the water for five to ten minutes, the patient should lose no time in getting in to bed, where he will probably derive great benefit from the general feeling of warmth, and from the flow of prespiration which has been induced. If possible, at this stage, the patient should remain in bed for two days, with a fire in his room, which should be made up well at night, so as to keep a light till morning. But keeping in bed will do little good if the patient persists in holding a newspaper or a book to read, and thereby he is more dangerously exposed to cold than if he were up, dressed, and going about as usual. The main point is to keep thoroughly wrapped up and constantly warm. Even an uncomfortable degree of heat may be beneficial.

A small piece of camphor chewed and sucked is very good. So is the inhalation of sulphurous acid gas—a remedy which was found to be in constant use by the weavers of Kiready, who had it among the materials of their work. Buy two ounces of sulphurous acid (dilute) from a chemist, and then take out the cork and inhale—through the nostrils only, of course—the pungent gas which is given off. Some use Ferrier's snuff, and find benefit there from; but it must be used cautiously, as it contains a powerful drug—to wit, morphia. Ten or twelve grains of Dover's powder taken in gruel at bedtime is good for an adult, but should not be administered to children, as it contains opium, which should never be given to them without a doctor's perscription. To avoid an unpleasant excoriation of the nose and upper lip during the course of a cold in the head, they should be often thoroughly washed with soap and lukewarm water, and a little vaseline should be applied. If the throat feels sore a chlorate of potash lozenger should be sucked accasionally.

Great Salt Lake and the Dead Sea.

Great Salt Lake is a shallow body of water, its average depth being a little more than three feet, while in many parts it is much less. The water is transparent, but excessively salt; it contains about twenty-two per cent. of common salt, slightly mixed with other salts, and forming one of the purest and most concentrated brines in the world. Its specific gravity is 1.17. The water is so buoyant that a man may float in it at full length upon his back, having his head and neck, his legs to the knees, and both arms to the elbow, entirely out of water. If he assumes a sitting posture, with his arms extended, his shoulders will rise above the water. Swimming, however, is difficult, as the lower limbs tend to rise above the surface, and the brine is so strong that to swallow even a very little of it will cause strangulation. The waters of the Dead Sea on the other hand, are nearly black, and contain much sulphur and bitumen, as well as salt. It is also very deep, varying from thirteen feet near the south end of the lake to more than 1,300 in the northern part. Its buoyancy is quite equal to that of the Great Salt Lake, for travelers say that a man can float prone upon the surface for hours without danger of sinking, and in a sitting position is held breast-high above the water.—Inter-Ocean.

Improved Western Washer

PRICE. No. 1 for family of 6..... $8
No. 2 for large family..... 9
No. 3 for Hotel and Laundry, ... 10

Over 20,000 in use.

Thousands of ladies are using it, and they speak of it in the highest terms, saying that they would rather dispense with any other household article than this excellent Washer. No well-regulated family will be without it, as it saves the clothes, saves labor, saves time, saves fuel, saves soap, and makes washday no longer a dread, but rather a pleasant recreation, as much as such is possible.

THE GOVERNMENT ENDORSES

The Ameican Agriculturist.

FROM THE TENTH CENSUS, VOL. 8, JUST PUBLISHED

"The American Agriculturist is especially worthy of mention, because of the remarkable success that has attended the unique and untiring efforts of its proprietors to increase and extend its circulation. Its contents are duplicated every month for a German edition, which also circulate widely."

This Tribute is a pleasing incident in the marvellous nearly

HALF A CENTURY

Career of this recognized leading Agricultural Journal of the world.

What it is To-Day.

Six months ago the American Agriculturist entered upon a new career of Prosperity and to day it is far superior to any similar periodical ever produced in this or any other country. Richer in editorial strength; richer in engravings; printed on finer paper, and presenting in every issue 100 columns of original reading matter from the ablest writers, and nearly 100 illustrations. Dr. George Thurber, for nearly quarter of a century the editor-in-chief of the American Agriculturist, Joseph Harris, Byron D. Halsted, Col. M. C. Weld, and Andrew S. Fuller, the other long time Editors, together with the other writers who have made the American Agriculturist what it is to-day, are still at their post.

WHAT, FREE???

Every subscriber, whose subscription is IMMEDIATELY forwarded us with the price, $1.65 in all—will receive the American Agriculturist for Dec. 1881, and all of 1885, and will be presented with the American Agricultural Family Cyclopædia, (just out). 700 Pages and over 1,000 Engravings. Strongly bound in cloth, black and gold.

This entirely new volume is a remarkable storehouse and book of reference for every department of human knowledge, including an Agricultural Supplement by Dr. Thurber.

Send three 2-cent stamps for mailing you specimen copy American Agriculturist, an elegant forty page Premium List, with 200 Illustrations, and specimen pages of our Family Cyclopædia. Canvassers wanted Everywhere.

ELIXIR

For the cure of

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions, free.

The Philadelphia Times.

Aims to cover the whole field of progressive journalism. No subject is too great for it to discuss intelligently without bias, and none so insignificant as to escape its notice. It lays the world tributary to its wants, and everywhere its agents may be found alert to gather the particulars of all passing events and send them by telegraph up to the last moment of going to press. It is a brief and abstract chronicle of the time and contains all that is worth knowing in the history of the world for the past twenty-four hours.

The Weekly Times.

$1.00 A YEAR.

The Largest, the Brightest and the Best. A Newspape for Every Household.

"THE WEEKLY TIMES" is foremost among the largest and best of the Family and General weekly newspapers published in the country, and is now offered to single subscribers at One Dollar a year and an extra copy given with every club of 20. It is the most progressive journal of its class. It aims to be the newspaper of the people of the whole country; to meet every intelligent want in journalism, and to make it so cheap that all can afford to enjoy its weekly visits.

"THE ANNALS OF THE WAR" have been one of the distinguished features of "THE WEEKLY TIMES," and is now intimated in that feature by many of the leading journals and periodicals of the country. The best writers from the active participants of the great struggle on both sides will continue their contributions to the unwritten history of the war in every number, and make the paper specially entertaining and instructive to the veterans of both the Blue and the Gray.

Terms of Subscription:

Smith's Tonic Syrup

FEVER and AGUE

Or CHILLS and FEVER,

AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of BULL'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient.

BULL'S SARSAPARILLA is the old and reliable remedy for impurities of the blood and Scrofulous affections—the King of Blood Purifiers.

DR. JOHN BULL'S VEGETABLE WORM DESTROYER is prepared in the form of candy drops, attractive to the sight and pleasant to the taste.
